

Editorial

From The Editor's Desk.....

Ayurveda ...for global health

Prof. Dr. Ragini Patil
Editor-In-Chief, PDEAS IJRAAS

Principal, PDEA's College of Ayurved and Research Centre, Nigdi, Pune, Maharashtra, India-411044

Recent developments in the Ayurvedic domain are extremely encouraging for Ayurvedic fraternity and I take an opportunity to pen these moments of achievements in the bi-annual multidisciplinary international peer reviewed journal "PDEASIJRAAS" which publishes researches in Ayurveda and allied sciences and give one platform to publish original research work.

Integration and comprehension of all health sciences for wellbeing of the society is the global task in the post covid era, so to celebrate the "Ayurveda day 2022", under the Azadi Ka Amrit Mahotsav, ministry of Ayush executed the theme "Har Din Har Ghar Ayurveda" (Ayurveda Every day, Ayurveda Everywhere) to propagate the benefits of Ayurveda in today's generation and to endorse Ayurvedic principles of health, food, lifestyle in every household.

All teaching institutions have celebrated Ayurveda day 2022 under the theme "Har Din Har Ghar Ayurveda" by organizing activities guided by NCISM, New Delhi.

World Ayurveda congress & Arogya Expo 2022, Goa is another successful mega event, which opened many avenues to Ayurveda students and professionals and international delegates for propagation and strengthening the roots of Ayurveda. In the WAC 2022, under the theme "Ayurveda -For One Health", brain storming scientific sessions including arogya expo were organized for more than 4000 delegates in which wellness tourism, growing market for Ayurvedic medicines, research in Ayurveda, international scope was discussed which is very promising for development and growth of Ayurveda.

In the valedictory ceremony, Honourable Prime Minister rightly addressed all delegates and appealed all to dedicate themselves to Ayurveda.

With support of government of India, trust and reputation of Ayurveda across the globe is gaining momentum so let's study the Ayurveda by focusing on evidence based research without deviating from Ayurvedic fundamentals because small steps in the right direction take you to desired destination.

..... Prof. Dr. Ragini R. Patil
Editor In Chief, PDEASIJRAAS